

With Maternal Affection

The following happened when the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un inspected the newly-built Pyongyang Bag Factory.

At the sewing workshop where bag production was in full swing, he feasted his eyes on women workers for a while. And he stressed the need for the workers to make even a single shoulder strap well with maternal sincerity.

Most of the factory's employees were mothers.

He meant that they should devote their sincerity with an attitude of mothers making bags for their own children.

That day, he said: In the old days, people said it took 50 000 man-days to raise one child. Now we have millions of children. The workers of the factory should turn out quality bags by reflecting the mind of mothers of the country.