

Philosophy of White Snow

Once, Chairman Kim Jong Il told officials that his philosophy of white snow is based on self-sacrifice.

The philosophy of white snow represents his noble view of life and the history of his great life.

Kim Jong Il was born on the snow-covered Mt Paektu and travelled the long road of revolution without respite, braving howling snowstorms. Noting that life should be dedicated for the good of the country and the people and that if the beginning of life has been beautiful, its end must also be beautiful and it is the true journey of life, he continued the long journey of on-site guidance until the last moment of his revolutionary career and passed away on a running train. Such a state leader can be found nowhere in the world.

Like snow that falls down covering the land in the cold season and that melts with the advent of spring making the land fertile, Kim Jong Il devoted his whole life to achieving the wellbeing of his people and the prosperity of his country. His was the life of ennobling patriotism.
