

Not Slighting Even a Trifle Thing

One day in October 2014 the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the completed apartment houses for teachers at Kim Chaek University of Technology.

While looking round a flat, he gave his opinions.

He then went out of it. He was passing through a corridor when he fixed his eyes on a flasher on the wall.

Kim Jong Un said that those lamps would save electricity and be convenient for the people, and that it was necessary to encourage the installation of such lamps in the corridors of apartment houses and buildings of public organs.

The officials keenly realized the noble intention of Kim Jong Un that patriotism is precisely the mind of regarding even a watt of electricity as a precious wealth of the country and make economical use of it.
