

Eternal Spring Aroma

One year the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited the Sinuiju Cosmetics Factory.

That day he looked round different production lines, which had been put on an automated, germ-free and dust-free basis in a short span of time, and other places of the factory for a long time, speaking highly of the fact that the factory had furnished itself with modern lines for producing various cosmetics including those for cleansing and hairdressing, adding:

The factory should never praise itself just because its Pomhyanggi (Spring Aroma)-brand cosmetics enjoy popularity and are in high demand. It should analyze the cosmetics of the country in comparison with the world-famous ones to steadily intensify research into updating the quality of its products and increase the product range.

He also clarified concrete ways and means to be adhered to in the production of cosmetics.

Thanks to his benevolent care, the country is filled with eternal spring aroma.
