

Colour of Ticket

One spring day, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited a public service building under construction.

After learning about its construction, he expressed satisfaction with the building equipped with various facilities.

When he was at the centre of the auditorium still under construction, an official told him that they were going to place seats of different colours by block of the auditorium.

Comrade Kim Jong Un agreed with that idea, saying that the colours of seats in a gym were different. And he did not say anything for a while as if he was lost in deep thought.

He then said it would be convenient for the spectators to find their seats if the colours of their tickets would match those of their seats.