

Work Has Become Joyous and Pleasant

One November day in 2014, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited a general foodstuff factory.

Learning in detail about its modernization project, he said with satisfaction that the factory had been facelifted, and that our efforts had not been in vain.

After looking round the factory whose production lines, ranging from feeding of raw materials to forwarding, were put on a modern footing, he said that work has become joyous and pleasant.