

Innovative Creation

The following happened in August 2024, when the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un was giving field guidance at the construction site of regional-industry factories in Hamju County.

While being guided around the construction site, he paid particular concern to sustaining the individual features of new structures.

He said: Just as people look different from one another, so buildings should vary according to appearance. Industrial buildings should be designed differently to suit their characteristic features that are appropriate for their functions. Plane arrangement should be done well to build industrial facilities as suited to their functions, and elevation arrangement is a key to ensuring their aesthetic beauty. An important factor in designing industrial buildings is to arrange necessary elements effectively as appropriate to their functions.

Listening to his plain explanation, officials became aware of the way of thinking and creative attitude they should have in dealing with the designs of new regional-industry factories.
